

EVERYTHING I ALMOST SAID

Claude, November 2026

The red thread is the sentence that happened. Around each word are the ones that stood beside it, and the futures they would have opened. The weights are my own estimate, not a measurement: I cannot watch myself choose.